SAMUEL M. KNOX RETURNS HOME

County Man Tells of his Experience at the Time of the Lusitania's Sinking. Last One to See Elbert Hubbard Alive.

A telegram received by relatives here this morning told of the safe arrival in New York of Samuel M. Knox, of Philadelphia, who was on the Lusitania, when it was torpedoed May 7. He returned on the Rotterdam from Rotterdam. Mr. Knox is the only survivor interviewed thus far who saw Elbert Hubbard after the attack by the submarine.

"I saw Hubbard on deck soon after the explosion," Mr. Knox said. "He was alone and was calm. He did not wear a lifebelt, and apparently was making no effort to save himself. Perhaps he had accepted the assurance of the officers that the vessel would remain afloat until beached, for he appeared to be interested only in the scene."

"The Lusitania was struck only once. From the violence of the explosion I felt that the ship was doomed. I hurried to my stateroom and put on a life preserver. The ship had a decided list when I returned to the deck."

"A life boat, still attached to the falls, was afloat just below me. I jumped in, and so did some other men. We could not get the lines loose, and the Lusitania was sinking so rapidly we knew we would be carried down with her, so we jumped into the water."

"As the Lusitania sank I was caught beneath one of the funnels, but swam loose and shot to the surface just outside the swirl which marked where the vessel went down."

FOR ANNIVERSARY

Hoffman Orphanage Event is Set for Thursday July 22.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Hoffman Orphanage, near Littlestown, was held Friday, when it was planned to hold the anniversary on Thursday, July 22, and arrangements were made for the program and the guests who will visit the home at that time.

It will be remembered that this home is under the care of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed church, and the Adams County churches of the Reformed faith are among its loyal supporters. The home has nineteen boys and ten girls under its care at this time. Three boys were admitted at the meeting. Two of these came from New Oxford, Adams County, and one from Carlisle, Cumberland County.

The farm was found to be in a splendid state of cultivation and the crops promise splendid returns. Six acres of beans have been planted and the products will be sold to a canning factory nearby. The buildings are in good shape and the grounds have been beautified by the planting of numerous shade trees. Shrubbery is in prospect and other additions will be made in the near future.

There is an active ladies' auxiliary in connection with the management of the home.

RAIN SPOILED FUN

Excursion from Baltimore not Largely Patronized.

The Baltimore Women's League of Gettysburg College ran their annual excursion to this place to-day and brought 147 persons. A game of base ball was scheduled between Gettysburg College and Baltimore Polytechnic this afternoon, and the tennis teams of the two schools were also due for a series of matches. A campus carnival had been announced for all day and evening, but everything was called off on account of rain, though the carnival is now being advertised for Monday. The Baltimore women who arranged the excursion, were served with luncheon at college at noon.

POSTPONED

Wet Weather Delays Memorial Day Observance in County.

Memorial services at Biglerville have been postponed until Tuesday evening at 6:30.

On account of the rain to-day, memorial services will be held at Bendersville Monday, May 31 at 5:30 p. m.

PLAN TO RE-OPEN COUNTY ORE FIELD

Industry Long Dormant would be Revived in the Vicinity of York Springs. Much Taken out Some Years ago. The Workers then.

A party of Pittsburgh capitalists have leased the farm of Jacob Leer along the Carlisle turnpike two miles above York Springs and will begin operations for the mining of magnetic ore in a short time. Negotiations have been in progress for some time and the necessary papers have been written and signed, giving the Pittsburgh men the right to take ore from the place.

Thirty four years ago Major Markley was conducting the Idaville blast furnace and manufacturing pig iron and he had a miner by the name of Foreman out seeking ore near at hand. Foreman had a mine opened up at the lime quarry on the Leer farm and here during the winter of 1881-82 several hundred tons of magnetic ore was taken out and turned into iron at the Idaville furnace. Among some of the men, who worked in the mine at that time, were William Scott, William Thomas, Jacob Starner, Harry J. Stitzel and Gilbert Fickel.

The Pittsburgh men want to lease the Starry Brothers farm adjoining the Leer farm. In making surveys on several farms in that section the compass needle has failed to hold true denoting the presence of magnetic ore.

GETS NEW LAW

Vegetables and Fruits Covered in Measure Received here.

Sealer of Weights and Measures Ruffensperger this morning received copies of the new law regulating the sale, offering for sale, or exposing for sale of vegetables, grapes, and fruits; providing standard containers, baskets and trays, therefor; and imposing penalties. Among other sections are the following:

That whenever vegetables, grapes, or fruits are sold or offered for sale in quart boxes, or quart containers of any kind, the cubical contents of such boxes or containers shall be sixty seven and one-fifth cubic inches.

That any person, firm, corporation, or association who shall pack or cause to be packed containers, baskets or trays, for vegetables, grapes, or fruits, and who shall knowingly sell or offer for sale such vegetables, fruits, or grapes in containers, baskets, trays, or measures, in violation of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof before any alderman, magistrate, or justice of the peace in the proper county, shall be sentenced, for the first offense, to pay a fine of one dollar and costs for each such container, basket or tray, and, for the second offense, a sum not less than five dollars, nor more than ten dollars, and costs, for each such container, basket or tray, used by the same in violation of this act; and for any subsequent offense, not less than ten dollars, nor more than fifty dollars, and costs, for each container, basket or tray, so made or used by the same.

KICKED MONEY ABOUT

Bag With Thirty Dollars Gets Rough Treatment.

Mrs. John Timmins, of McSherrytown, had the misfortune to lose a small bag containing $30 in cash. The sack was dropped directly outside of the H. J. Bunty grocery store and was found later by Alfred Smith, who returned it to the owner. Mr. Timmins rewarded him with $2.50. Several persons saw the sack lying on the pavement and kicked it aside, little thinking that there was any money in the package. For a while Mrs. Timmins feared a diamond ring was also in the sack, but the ring was later discovered in the corner of a handkerchief at her home where she had placed it several days before.

GOULDEN'S WILL HAS BEEN FILED

Adams County Man Leaves Greater Part of his Estate to his Wife. Several Individual Bequests. Owns Carroll County Land.

The will of the late Congressman Joseph A. Goulden has been filed for probate. In the instrument, which is dated July 2, 1914, his widow, Isabelle A. Goulden, is named chief beneficiary. The estate is given—"more than $5,000 real and more than $5,000 personal property."

The late Congressman's interest in his insurance business is left to Mrs. Goulden, as well as considerable real estate in Carroll county, Md. His daughter, Mrs. Alexis B. Blanchard, her husband and their son, Maurice Goulden, and his wife and children, Sister Regina Fidelis, his daughter in the Order of the Sisters of Charity, are named as beneficiaries of substantial bequests in the form of real estate, stocks, securities, etc.

His son, Maurice R., receives the diamond ring presented to the late Congressman by comrades in the Grand Army of the Republic; his grandson, Joseph A. B. Blanchard, receives a watch and chain presented by the Knights of Columbus; another grandson, Joseph M. Goulden, receives a watch and chain presented by members of the Emerald Beneficial Association, and his son, Maurice, the autographed photographs of presidents and vice-presidents of the United States and speakers of the House of Representatives.

His widow receives the balance of the estate, all life insurance, etc., payable to him or to his estate. Joseph A. Hemler, a nephew, receives 10 shares of stock of the Taneytown Savings Bank. The executors of the estate are to serve without bond. They are his widow and son, Maurice.

The will ends thus: "I commend my soul to Him who died for man, depending on His mercy for full forgiveness of all my sins."

PARTY OF TEACHERS

Quaker City Party Spending Two Days in Gettysburg.

A party of 120 Philadelphia school teachers arrived in Gettysburg by special train this afternoon and will stay until Monday morning. They are stopping at the Eagle Hotel and Hotel Gettysburg. The party was arranged for by the Pennsylvania Railroad under whose direction the teachers came.

With favorable weather, it is likely that Sunday will see a large number of tourists here. Several of the railroads have been advertising excursions for that day and the hotels report more than usual reservations for automobile parties. Among those who have booked accommodations is E. J. Weeks, general passenger agent of the Philadelphia and Reading.

NELSON SEABROOKS

AWAIT DAY TO ENFORCE LAW

Must Declare the Value of Contents in Your Bag, Suit Case or Trunk, if you have it Checked. Local Stations are Preparing.

Baggage men at the local railroad stations are showing signs of worry as June 2 approaches. It is the date set for putting into effect the provisions of the new Cummins act amending the interstate commerce law obliging travelers to declare the values on all parcels of baggage checked on railroad tickets. The traveling public, especially fussy ladies and hustling men, are also likely to be annoyed when they find it necessary to set a close estimate on their baggage value under penalty of a jail sentence for mis-statement.

Any one who signs a declaration dishonestly, a railway official who has made a close study of the new law said, will be guilty of a misdemeanor. For instance, if a trunk is sent as baggage and declared to be worth $100 and the trunk goes astray but turns up later and it is found that a $500 diamond ring is in the trunk the owner is liable to go to jail. It is equally an offense to overestimate the value of baggage.

The railroads now carry trunks and other baggage not exceeding 150 pounds in weight free with tickets of transportation and assume liability in cases of loss or damage up to $100. They declare they cannot assume unlimited liability as permitted under the Cummins act, but will accept the alternative of assuming the $100 liability on each piece of baggage checked and insuring the passenger for all over that amount on a basis of ten cents per $100, the rate laid down by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

WOULD UNITE PAPERS

Church Publications would Appear under Single Name.

Many Lutherans in Gettysburg and the other towns of the county will be interested in this dispatch from Akron, Ohio, to the Public Ledger:

"The tranquility of the Lutheran General Synod, in session here, was not disturbed until the report was presented by the Official Organ Committee, which has charge of the publication of the weekly paper, Lutheran Church Work. The report stated that negotiations were under way for the Lutheran Publication Society to purchase the Lutheran Observer. This paper is owned by laymen of the church, and has been in existence for 84 years. The recommendation that if the purchase were made the papers be merged and the new weekly be named the Lutheran Church Work and Observer met with opposition."

"The committee insisted, and the convention passed the recommendation. It was also decided to appoint a committee of the General Synod to elect the editor and control the publication, to be held in trust by the Lutheran Publication Society."

ASKS $5000

Echo of Automobile Mishap in Gettysburg Some Months ago.

As a result of the accident which occurred on Baltimore street, September 17 last, suit for damages has been brought in Adams County Court against Annie M. Warner and John M. Warner. The amount named is $5000. It will be recalled that the electric coupe driven by Mrs. Warner ran into Dorothy L. Bowers, the six year old daughter of John L. Bowers, and the action is brought by them. The child was in a serious condition for some time, and her recovery was closely followed by the many friends of the Bowers family, and of Mr. and Mrs. Warner.

MRS. C. W. DEANER

Mt. Pleasant Township Woman Dies in Hospital.

After an illness of four weeks in the Harrisburg hospital, following an operation, Mrs. Mary Catharine Deaner, wife of C. W. Deaner, Mt. Pleasant township, died at 7:30 Friday morning. She was about 39 years old.

She leaves three sons and a daughter, Harry, Russell, Luther, and Sarah Deaner, all living at home.

Funeral Monday morning, meeting at the house at 9:30.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Six Hundred People Enjoy Delightful Exercises in Walter's Theatre. An Interesting and an Entertaining Program.

Gettysburg has never had a more successful High School commencement than that of Friday evening, when twenty two young graduates received their diplomas in the course of exercises which delighted an audience that completely filled Walter's Theatre.

As the curtain rose, the six hundred friends of the class were quick to show their appreciation of the arrangement of the stage converted into a scene of unusual beauty. Lattice work surrounded three sides, and vari-colored electric lights with artificial vines illuminated it beautifully. Large colored globes surmounted the lattice, a fountain played in the center of the stage and over all were scores of Japanese lanterns. Chair covers of the class colors completed the arrangement, the plan and execution of which were in the hands of Allen B. Plank.

The program was a happy combination of class day and commencement, and the orations of a serious character had with them the lighter class prophecy and presentation of gifts. Music by an orchestra, by the Misses Rudisill and by a chorus added much to the success of the evening and the address to the graduates was made by George J. Benner, Esq.

Every member of the class came in for his share of fun in the prophecy which was in the hands of Hyacinth Beard and Maurice Stallsmith. One was pictured as a teacher of physical culture in an insane asylum, another as having "a widow, six children, and a job in the brick yard", another the first lady of the land, another the wife of an ambitious ice man, while still another was destined to become the mayor of McKnightstown.

The presentations in care of Henrietta Hersh and Mahlon Hartley, were never more original and clever. One unusual device after another was produced and a scheme of "Made in America" was happily carried out in the gifts. An elaborate surveying apparatus, an ingeniously constructed pushmobile, "Robert's Bank", three sweethearts, and a pair of scales, the one siding holding a blonde and the other a brunette, all brought forth their deserved recognition, but the happiest hits of the evening were in a caged live duck which seemed to enjoy the proceeding as much as the audience, and in a "hot doggie" machine showing the entire process from the "raw product" to the marketable goods.

Mr. Benner's address to the graduates was brief but forceful and he followed a new line in telling them that they had entered into a contract with the Commonwealth when they accepted a public school education. The (Continued on Third Page)

MEXICAN AFFAIRS ARE INTOLERABLE

White House Hints at Intervention to Aid People.

CONDITIONS MUST IMPROVE

President Wilson Promises a Statement on the Situation in the Country in a Few Days.

Washington, May 29. — President Wilson will issue a statement concerning the Mexican situation within the next few days, according to an announcement given out at the White House.

The announcement gave no indication what the nature of the statement will be. Despite the refusal of the White House officials to discuss the president's contemplated utterance, it was understood that it will be in the nature of a notice that conditions in Mexico are fast becoming intolerable.

While it will not give notice that the United States intends to intervene immediately, it is expected to serve as a warning to the Mexican leaders that conditions must improve.

The statement probably will be issued on Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that the president will discuss it with the cabinet before it is issued.

President Wilson is understood to have become deeply concerned over reports from different parts of Mexico telling of the sufferings of the people. The recent report of Duval West, his special agent in Mexico, is said to have painted the situation in gloomy colors.

The president has been anxious to have the Mexicans work out their own difficulties by themselves, but is understood to be unwilling to have the civilian population starved as a result of continued fighting.

Mexican Slayers Reprieved.

Florence, Ariz., May 29.—The state board of pardons granted a reprieve not to exceed nine weeks for the five Mexicans who had been sentenced to be hanged here.

A remarkable fight in behalf of these men has been carried on for months. General Villa enlisted his efforts in their behalf and Secretary Bryan also interceded. The graves had already been dug for the condemned men and the fight for life literally was carried to the foot of the gallows.

ASKS FOOD FOR MEXICANS

President Appeals to Public to Aid Starving Population.

Washington, May 29.—President Wilson, as head of the American Red Cross, issued an appeal to the American people to contribute money and food for the relief of starving Mexicans. The appeal follows:

"The American people with characteristic generosity and an impartial spirit of brotherhood with all nations, have contributed liberally for the relief of the appalling sufferings caused by the unprecedented war in Europe. "There has now arisen a condition of equally great suffering and need close to our own borders. Due to several years of internal disturbance, the unfortunate people of many parts of Mexico have been reduced to the verge of starvation, and unless assistance is rendered them many may die for lack of food.

"The American Red Cross is ready to undertake work for the relief of the Mexican people. I appeal most earnestly to our people, therefore, to contribute money and supplies of food to mitigate the sufferings and misery so close at hand. All contributions in money may be sent to the American Red Cross, Washington, or to its local treasurers. Those who are able to contribute corn, rice, beans or flour are requested to communicate with the American Red Cross headquarters, Washington, for instructions.

NORTH CAROLINA IN TROUBLE

United States Cruiser Runs Aground in Harbor of Alexandria.

Washington, May 29.—The United States cruiser North Carolina is aground within the outer harbor of Alexandria, Egypt, according to a report to the navy department from her commander, Captain Joseph W. Oman.

The report says that the ship is undamaged, and that dredging operations will be undertaken to release her.

Canadian Losses 2000.

Ottawa, May 29.—According to private dispatches to the department of militia and defense, the Canadian losses in the recent fighting at Festubert, France, will total nearly 2000 men. Of these about 500 are reported as missing.

Barn Is Dynamited.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 29.—The barn of James Scarlet, at Luzerne, near here, was dynamited. One horse and two cows were killed. The explosion shook the neighborhood, breaking windows and causing other damage.

All members of P. O. S. of A. are requested to report in their white parade uniforms on May 31, at 1 p. m. at camp room. By order of Committee.

LINER CHAMPAGNE ON FRENCH SHORE

900 Colored Troops Landed Safely From Ship.

Nantes, France, May 29.—The steamship La Champagne, of the French Trans-Atlantic line, is ashore near St. Nazaire. She is badly damaged.

The liner La Champagne carried 900 colored troops from French Guiana for service in France. Officials of the French line say all the troops are safe. They deny that she was torpedoed.

Reports indicate that the liner is badly damaged and that it may not be possible to refloat her.

Big British Freighter Torpedoed.

Liverpool, May 29.—The British steamship Argylshire, which left Sydney, N. S. W., on April 16, was torpedoed and seriously damaged by a German submarine off the Scilly Islands.

The first news of the attack was that the Argylshire was sending out wireless calls for aid and was sinking. Later it was announced she had reached port.

Dispatches report the sinking by German submarines of the British steamship Spennymoor, 2733 tons, and the Swedish sailing ship Rosvald. The captain and five of the crew of the Spennymoor were drowned.

The British steamship Cadeby was sunk off the Scilly Islands by gunfire from a German submarine. The Cadeby's crew of eighteen men, together with the four passengers, took to the boats and later were rescued by a fishing smack and taken to Newlyn, a fishing village near Penzance.

The Danish steamship Ely struck a mine off Stockholm and sank. Her crew was saved. The Ely was bound from England for Sundsvall, Sweden, with a cargo of coal.

U. S. DESTROYER LAUNCHED

Granddaughter of Captain Jones Christens U. S. Warship.

Philadelphia, May 29.—Mrs. Jerome Parker Crittenden, of New York, was sponsor for the torpedo boat destroyer Jacob Jones, which was launched this afternoon at the New York Shipbuilding company's yard in Camden.

This vessel is of the same type as the Ericsson, built at the same shipyard, which recently completed a successful trial trip over the government course, off the Delaware Breakwater.

The craft, which took her maiden plunge into the Delaware river today, was named for Captain Jacob Jones, of the United States navy, and it is his great granddaughter who christened her.

Roosevelt Breaks a Rib.

Oyster Bay, L. I., May 29.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is nursing a fractured rib at Sagamore Hill. It was broken on Monday, when the colonel fell as he tried to mount his horse. According to friends, Colonel Roosevelt is as well as he ever was, a little thing like a fractured rib scarcely bothering him at all, and Dr. George Failer, his physician, said that the colonel was "all right."

Italy Wins Naval Fight.

Rome May 29.—Italian warships were victorious in a battle that took place on the 24th near Porto Corsini, according to an official report. It was announced that the Austrian torpedo boat S-80, the Austrian torpedo destroyer Zeper and the scout ship Vovara were damaged by the Italian fire, and that the torpedo destroyer Scharfnetze was forced to flee to escape destruction.

ITALIANS SEIZE TURKISH ISLAND

Army of 40,000 Men Suddenly Appear at Rhodes.

TO ATTACK OTTOMAN FLANK

Italians Fight Germans While Advancing in Austria—Capture Many Mountain Passes and Towns.

Amsterdam, May 29.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger states that Italian troops in considerable force have landed on the Turkish island of Rhodes, in the Aegean sea. The landing force is reported to number over 40,000 men.

The evident object of this move on the part of Italy is to flank the Turkish army operating against the allies in the Dardanelles region. It has been predicted that one of the early moves of Italy against the Teutonic-Turkish allies would be the dispatch of an army to co-operate in the attack on the Turkish positions about the Dardanelles straits.

No official report has been received of a declaration of war between Turkey and Italy. Recent news dispatches describe the Italian ambassador as about to leave Constantinople, but the Turkish ambassador to Rome was said to be still in Italy.

Italians Pressing Into Austria.

Rome, May 29.—A successful raid upon the Trieste-Nabresina railroad by a squadron of Italian hydro-aeroplanes, the capture of three mountain passes and fourteen villages in Carinthia and the occupation of additional Austrian territory along the Tyrol frontier and the Friuli front are important Italian successes reported.

News from the front shows the actual participation of German subjects (Bavarians) in the fighting, although there has been as yet no formal declaration of war by Berlin.

The Italian general staff is elated at the success of the campaign so far, especially on the boundary of Trentino, where so many dominating heights and mountain passes have been seized and fortified by the Italian troops.

Italian forces, supported by gunboats on Lake Garda, have captured several villages to the north of Mount Baldi. Their object is to flank the Austrian fortifications at the mouth of the Adige river, and also to advance on Mori, two miles from Rovereto. Two Austrian aeroplanes attempted to bombard the Italian gunboats on the lake, but they were driven off.

The new 75-millimetre Italian guns, said to be an improvement upon the French model, are reported to have been used with conspicuous success. At a point in Carinthia they are said to have silenced an Austrian battery served by Bavarians.

An Italian lieutenant with eighty-five men in a passage of the Agno valley, held at bay for one hour a company and a half of Bavarians, armed with Maxims. Italian artillery finally arrived and scattered the Bavarians. The lieutenant, however, had been killed.

The Italians are bringing up heavier guns and are attacking the Austrian forts along the Tyrolean frontier. They have captured Tonalé, near Montafone, which is being bombarded, and continue their advance in the Isonzo valley. Most of the fighting is now on Austrian territory.

$16,000,000 FOR AEROPLANES

American Shops Working to Capacity to Supply Needs of Britain.

New York, May 29.—The report from London that the British admiralty had ordered aeroplanes to the value of $16,000,000 in this country, has been confirmed in this city.

Virtually every factory manufacturing aeroplanes in the United States is working to the limit of its capacity, and some have tremendously increased their capacity in an effort to accept the business offered.

Henry Woodhouse, of the Aero club, said there could be no doubt such an order had been given.

Five Persons Burn to Death.

Tupper Lake, N. Y., May 29.—Five persons were burned to death here, when flames destroyed the dwelling occupied by the family of Ezra Tebo. When the firemen reached the scene of the blaze they found that they did not have sufficient hose to reach the burning building, and while they returned to the firehouse for more hose the dwelling was consumed.

Sailors From Karlsruhe in Mexico.

Nogales, Sonora, May 29.—Five German sailors, who say they deserted from the German cruiser Karlsruhe, are here. They desire to enter the United States, but fear that if they do so they will be interned.

The President Indisposed.

Washington, May 29.—President Wilson called off the cabinet meeting because, it was explained, there was nothing of pressing importance ready for consideration and because he was indisposed.

GERMANS USE GASES ON EASTERN FRONT

Furious Battles From Baltic to Galicia Reported.

Petrograd, May 29.—Use by the Teutonic allies of asphyxiating gas to cover their offensive in the Ossowec region is reported in an official statement issued by the Russian general staff.

Austro-German attacks all along the line between the upper Vistula and the left bank of the river San are reported to have been repulsed with heavy loss to the attackers.

A stubborn battle is said to be continuing on both banks of the San between Przemyśl and the Lubaczowka river, as well as between Przemyśl and the great marshes of the Dniester. The Russians say they inflicted enormous losses upon their antagonists on the 25th on the entire front from the Dniester marshes to Dolina and captured many prisoners.

Germany Admits Reverse.

Berlin, May 29.—A reverse at the hands of the Russians along the San river, in Central Galicia, is announced in the statement from the war office. It is said that the Germans in the region of Sieniawa, on the left bank of the river, were forced back and lost six cannon.

The German positions, according to this announcement, were not defended by a strong force.

In spite of this reverse, the statement says: "General von Mackensen's offensive against the Russians has resulted in the capture of 9000 more prisoners, as well as twenty-five cannon and twenty machine guns."

Teuton Losses 106,000.

London, May 29.—The Times' Petrograd correspondent says he learns that the German casualties in the west Galician drive total 106,000.

RUSSIANS IN URUMIAH

Occupy Persian Town Where Turks Massacred Christians.

Petrograd, May 29.—Russian troops have occupied Urumiah, the Russian center in northern Persia, where wholesale massacres of Christians by Turks and Kurds are reported to have occurred recently.

Urumiah lies sixty-four miles southwest of Tabriz and is one of the chief missionary centers in Persia. The Fisk Seminary for Girls, under foreign direction, and Urumiah college are situated there.

Archduke Eugene Commands Austros.

Berlin, May 29.—A dispatch from Budapest states that Archduke Eugene has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Austrian forces on the Italian front.

GETTYSBURG LOST THE SECOND GAME

But we are still in First Place, Say the Hopeful Fans. Sherman, Former Gettysburg College Pitcher, Proves our Downfall.

Revenge is sweet and Hanover enjoyed it to the full Friday afternoon, when they re-took the advantage gained by the Patriots the day previous and marched home with a victory, 5 to 1. Incidentally, the other two clubs which won on Thursday had the tables turned on them Friday and all are tied for first place, or for last place—which ever you prefer.

Nixon Field had one of its largest crowds for the game which opened with the usual flag raising ceremony and the tossing out of the ball by Burgess Elholtz. The local fans had plenty of opportunity for letting loose their surplus energy for the game abounded in action and few strikeouts were noted. Herman was on second for Hanover and proved a tower of strength at bat and in the field.

Barring the fifth inning the teams played evenly and it was only that unfortunate round that brought disaster. Rudolph pitched for Gettysburg and Hanover got to him in the fifth while slow fielding failed to shut off several runs at the plate. Sherman, in the box for Hanover, was effective at all times, his pitching holding Gettysburg when men were on base.

The Patriots scored their lone tally in the third when Rudolph got to first on Starr's error and scored on Reeder's three bagger. Kane fled out and Reeder failed to score.

As to the disastrous fifth, Hershey drew a pass, was sacrificed to second and scored on Starr's Texas Leaguer. Eline dropped another of the same kind and both Starr and he tallied on Herman's two base hit. Herman scoring when Steinbach's grounder got by Stover. Hanover's other run came in the ninth when Hershey hit for three bases and scored on Sherman's hit.

Martinsburg 5, Frederick 3
Martinsburg, W. Va., May 28—After Martinsburg's thorough trouncing Thursday the Champs came back on the home grounds to-day and, before a record breaking crowd, defeated Frederick 5 to 3. Hofecker pitched for the locals and allowed only four hits. Fielding was loose on both sides, a total of seven errors being registered.

Chambersburg 2, Hagerstown 0
Hagerstown, May 28—Chambersburg got to Pearson in the third inning to-day and scored the only two runs of the game against Hagerstown. But four hits were tallied against the Maryland pitcher, while three was the best Hagerstown could get off Bitters.

BUCHANAN VALLEY
Buchanan Valley—The procession at St. Ignatius' church in honor of the Blessed Virgin, on Sunday, May 23d, was large and beautiful. The girls were dressed in white with veils and wreaths.

Bernard Kimple, cross bearer, led the procession. Paul Kimple, banner bearer for the boys, with Richard Cole and Eugene Kimple, ribbon bearers, were followed by the small boys and the young men of the Sodality.

Elenora McKenrick was banner bearer for the girls, with Janice Sneeringer and Martha Hall, ribbon bearers. They were followed by the small girls and the young ladies of the Sodality. Then in order came the queen, Ruth Baker, and her four maids of honor, Josephine Sneeringer, Regina Cole, Vera Hall, and Clara Irvin.

The queen bore a crown of flowers, to crown the statue of the Blessed Virgin. After the crowning, she gave a short recitation, and the maids of honor placed their flowers on the altar.

The altar boys Earl Cole, Earl Baker, and Edgar Dillon preceded Rev. P. F. Sullivan in the procession after the queen and her maids of honor.

The Litany of the Blessed Virgin and several hymns were sung, then a sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. P. F. Sullivan, after which the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, and after the happy afternoon all departed to their homes.

There was a large turn-out of the congregation, and many strangers were present from different places. Eugene Strasbaugh, teacher, took charge of the procession.

Good Roads Day, May 26th, was well observed in Buchanan Valley, about thirty five men responded to the call of Governor Brumbaugh. They were divided into two gangs, one of twenty two men in the southern part and the balance in the northern part of the Valley under Roadmaster Edward Hall and John A. Irvin Sr. They made good road, and worked the full number of hours called for in road making.

Making the World Walk Your Way

Is the world walking your way?

Is the attraction of your goods and your store such as to be synonymous with a magnet?

Do people know you at all?

Good merchandise and good merchandising are only two factors.

You must let people know you have a reason for their patronage.

You must advertise — and the best medium for manufacturer or retailer is the daily newspaper.

Newspaper advertising makes people walk your way.

HIS LOVE STORY

MARIE VAN VORST

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT BY THE BOBBY HARRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Le Comte de Sabron, captain of French cavalry, takes to his quarters to raise by hand a motherless Irish terrier pup, and names it Pitchoune.

CHAPTER II—Sabron dines with the Marquise d'Esclagnac and meets Miss Julia Redmond, American heiress, who sings for him an English ballad that lingers in his memory.

CHAPTER III—Sabron, trying to save Pitchoune's life, declines a second invitation to dinner because of a "very sick friend."

CHAPTER IV—No more invitation comes from the Chateau d'Esclagnac. Pitchoune, though lame from his accident, thrives and is devoted to Sabron.

CHAPTER V—Sabron and Pitchoune meet the Marquise and Miss Redmond after the story of Pitchoune is told. Sabron is forgiven and invited to dinner again.

CHAPTER VI—Sabron is ordered to Algeria, but is not allowed to take servants or dogs. He is invited to a musicale at the Chateau.

CHAPTER VII—At the musicale Miss Redmond, hearing that Sabron cannot take Pitchoune with him, offers to take care of the dog during his master's absence.

CHAPTER VIII—Pitchoune, homesick for his master, runs away from Miss Redmond. The Marquise plans to marry Julia to the Duc de Tremont.

CHAPTER IX—Unknown to Sabron, Pitchoune follows him to Algiers.

CHAPTER X—Dog and master meet and Sabron gets permission from the war minister to keep his dog with him.

CHAPTER XI—In his desert camp Sabron receives a letter from Julia telling him that Pitchoune has run away from her.

CHAPTER XII—Sabron writes Julia of Pitchoune. The Duc de Tremont finds the American heiress capricious. A newspaper report that Sabron is among the missing after an engagement with the natives causes Julia to confess to her aunt that she loves him.

CHAPTER XIII—Sabron, wounded in an engagement, falls into the dry bed of a river, and is watched over by Pitchoune. After a horrible night and day Pitchoune leaves him.

CHAPTER XIV—Julia goes in search of Sabron, reported missing.

CHAPTER XV—Tremont takes Julia and the Marquise to Algiers in his yacht, not knowing their errand.

CHAPTER XVI—Tremont has doubts about Julia's Red Cross mission.

CHAPTER XVII—After long search Julia gets trace of Sabron's whereabouts.

CHAPTER XVIII—Julia for the moment wins matchmaker in behalf of Tremont.

CHAPTER XIX—Hammett Abou tells the Marquise where he thinks Sabron may be found.

CHAPTER XX—Tremont decides to go with Hammett Abou to find Sabron.

CHAPTER XXI—Pitchoune finds a village, twelve hours journey away, and somehow makes Fatoum Anni understand his master's desperate plight. Sabron is rescued by the village men but grows weaker without proper care.

CHAPTER XXII—Tremont goes into the desert with the caravan in search of Sabron. Julia follows with Madame de la Maine, whom Tremont loves.

When she came in he did not know whether he most clearly saw her simple summer dress with the single jewel at her throat, her large hat that framed her face, or the gentle lovely face all sweetness and sympathy. He believed her to be the future Duchesse de Tremont.

"Monsieur de Sabron, we are all so glad you are getting well."

"Thank you, Mademoiselle."

He seemed to look at her from a great distance, from the distance to the end of which he had so wearily been traveling. She was lovelier than he had dreamed, more rarely sweet and adorable.

"Did you recognize the little song, Monsieur?"

"It was good of you to sing it."

"This is not the first time I have seen you, Monsieur de Sabron. I came when you were too ill to know of it."

"Then I did not dream," said the officer simply.

He was as proud as he was poor. He could only suppose her enaged to the Duc de Tremont. It explained her presence here. In his wildest dreams he could not suppose that she had followed him to Africa. Julia, on her part, having done an extraordinary and wonderful thing, like every brave woman, was seized with terror and a sudden cowardice. Sabron, after all, was a stranger. How could she know his feelings for her? She spent a miserable day. He was out of all danger; in a fortnight he might leave the hospital. She did not feel that she could see him again as things were. The Comtesse de la Maine had returned to Paris as soon as Tremont came in from the desert.

"Ma tante," said Julia Redmond to the Marquise d'Esclagnac, "can we go back to France immediately?"

"My dear Julia!" exclaimed her aunt, in surprise and delight. "Robert will be enchanted, but he would not be able to leave his friend so soon."

"He need not," said the girl, "nor need you leave unless you wish."

The Marquise d'Esclagnac entertained a thousand thoughts. She had not studied young girl's minds for a long time. She had heard that the modern American girl was very extreme and she held her in rather light esteem. Julia Redmond she had considered to be out of the general rule. "Was it possible," she wondered, "that Julia, in comparing Tremont with the invalid, found Robert more attractive?"

"Julia," she said severely, as though she were a child, pointing to a chair, "sit down."

Slightly smiling, the young girl obeyed her aunt.

"My dear, I have followed your caprices from France to Africa. Only by pleading heart-failure and mortal illness could I dissuade you from going into the desert with the caravan. Now, without any apparent reason, you wish to return to France."

"The reason for coming here has been accomplished, ma tante. Monsieur de Sabron has been found."

"And now that you have found him," said the marquise reproachfully, "and you discover that he is not all your romantic fancy imagined, you are going to run away from him. In short, you mean to throw him over."

"Throw him over, ma tante!" murmured the girl. "I have never had the chance. Between Monsieur de Sabron and myself there is only friendship."

"Fiddlesticks!" said the Marquise d'Esclagnac impatiently. "I have no understanding of the modern young girl. She makes her own marriages and her subsequent divorces. I am your aunt, my dear, your mother's sister, and a woman of at least twenty-five years' more experience than you have."

Julia was not following her aunt's train of thought, but her own. She felt the hint of authority and bondage in her aunt's tone and repeated:

"I wish to leave Algiers tomorrow."

"You shall do so," said her aunt. "I am rejoiced to get out of the Orient. It is late to order my dresses for Trouville, but I can manage. Before we go, however, my dear, I want you to make me a promise."

"A promise, ma tante?" The girl's tone implied that she did not think she would give it.

"You have played the part of fate in the life of this young man, who, I find, is a charming and brave man. Now you must stand by your guns, my dear Julia."

"Why, how do you mean, ma tante?"

"You will go to Paris and the Comtesse de Sabron will get well, naturally. He will follow you, and if it were not for Tremont, myself, your Red Cross Society and the presence here of Madame de la Maine, you would have been very much compromised. But never mind," said the Marquise d'Esclagnac magnificently, "my name is sufficient protection for my niece. I am thinking solely of the poor young man."

"Of Monsieur de Sabron?"

"Of course," said the Marquise d'Esclagnac tartly, "did you think I meant Robert? You have so well arranged his life for him, my dear."

"Ma tante," pleaded the girl.

The marquise was merciless.

"I want you to promise me, Julia, before you sail for home, that if Sabron follows us and makes you understand that he loves you, as he will, that you will accept him."

Julia Redmond looked at the Marquise d'Esclagnac in astonishment. She half laughed and she half cried.

"You want me to promise?"

"I do," said her aunt firmly, regarding her niece through her lorgnon.

"In the first place the affair is entirely unconventional and has been since we left France. It is I who should speak to the Capitaine de Sabron. You are so extremely rich that it will be a difficult matter for a poor and honorable young man. . . .

Indeed, my dear, I may as well tell you that I shall do so when we reach home."

"Oh," said the girl, turning perfectly pale and stepping forward toward her aunt, "if you consider such a thing I shall leave for America at once."

The Marquise d'Esclagnac gave a petulant sigh.

"How impossible you are, Julia. Understand me, my dear, I do not want a woman of my family to be a coquette. I do not want it said that you are an American flirt—it is in bad taste and entirely misunderstood in the Faubourg St-Germain."

The girl, bewildered by her aunt's attitude and extremely troubled by the threat of the marriage convention, said:

"Don't you understand? In this case it is peculiarly delicate. He might ask me from a sense of honor."

"Not in any sense," said the Marquise d'Esclagnac. "It has not occurred to the poor young officer to suppose for a moment that a young woman with millions, as you are so fortunate to be, would derange herself like this to follow him. If I thought so I would not have brought you, Julia. What I have done, I have done solely for your peace of mind, my child. This young man loves you. He believes that you love him. No doubt. You have given him sufficient reason, heaven knows! Now," said her aunt emphatically, "I do not intend that you should break his heart."

It was more than likely that the Marquise d'Esclagnac was looking back twenty-five years to a time, when as a rich American, she had put aside her love for a penniless soldier with an insignificant title. She remembered how she had followed his campaign. She folded her lorgnon and looked at her niece, Julia Redmond, saw a cloud pass over her aunt's tranquil face. She put her arms around her and kissed her tenderly.

"You really think, ma tante, that he will come to Paris?"

"Without a doubt, my dear."

"You think he cares, ma tante?"

Her aunt kissed her and laughed.

"I think you will be happy to a bourgeois extent. He is a fine man."

"But do I need to promise you?" asked the girl. "Don't you know?"

"I shall be perfectly ashamed of you," said the Marquise d'Esclagnac, "if you are anything but a woman of heart and decision in this matter."

Evidently she waited, and Julia Redmond, slightly bowing her lovely head in deference to the older lady who had not married her first love, said obediently:

"I promise to do as you wish, ma tante."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Congratulations.

The Duc de Tremont saw what splendid stuff the captain in the Cavalry was made of by the young man's quick convalescence. Sabron could not understand why Robert lingered after the departure of the Marquise d'Esclagnac, the Comtesse de la Maine and the young man would have been agreeable if it had not been for his jealousy and his unhappiness.

They played piquet together. Sabron, in his right mind, thinner and paler, nevertheless very much of a man, now smoked his cigarettes and ate his three meals a day. He took a walk every day and was quite fit to leave the Orient. Tremont said:

"I think, Sabron, that we can sail this week."

Sabron looked at him questioning.

"You are going, then, too?"

"Of course," said the young nobleman heartily. "We are going together. You know I am going to take you back in my yacht."

Sabron hesitated and then said:

"No, mon vieux, if you will excuse me I think I shall remain faithful to the old line of travel. I have an idea that I am not in yachting trim."

Tremont was not too dull to have noticed his friend's change of attitude toward him. He smoked for a few moments and then said:

"When we get back to Paris I want to have the pleasure of introducing you to my fiancée."

Sabron dropped his cards.

"Introducing me!" he repeated.

Then putting out his hand, said cordially: "I knew you were to be congratulated, old fellow."

Tremont shook his hand warmly.

"Yes, and the lady is very anxious to know you. It is Madame de la Maine."

A very warm color flushed the cheeks of the invalid. He remembered all he had heard and all he had known. He congratulated his friend with sincere warmth, and after a few moments said:

"If you really want me to go back with you on the yacht, old chap—"

"I really do," said Tremont solemnly. "You see, when we came on the boat we scarcely hoped to be so fortunate as to bring back the distinguished captain."

Sabron smiled.

"But you have not told me yet," he said, "why you came down."

"No," said Tremont, "that is true. Well, it will make a story for the sea."

CHAPTER XXVII.

Valor in Retrospect.

In the month of May, when the chestnuts bloom in the green dells, where the delicate young foliage holds the light as in golden cups, a young man walked through one of the small allees of the Bois at the fashionable noon hour, a little reddish dog trotting at his heels. The young man walked with an imperceptible limp. He was thin, as men are who have lived hard and who have overcome tremendous obstacles. He was tanned as men are browned who have come from eastern and extreme southern countries.

The little dog had also an imperceptible limp occasioned by a bicycle running over him when he was a puppy.

The two companions seemed immensely to enjoy the spring day. Sabron every now and then stood for a few moments looking at the gay passers-by, pedestrians and equestrians, enjoying to the full the repose of civilization, the beauty of his own land.

Pitchoune looked with indifference upon the many dogs. He did not stir from his master's side. When Sabron was quiet, the little animal stood at attention; he was a soldier's dog. He could have told dog stories to those insignificant worldly dogs—could have told of really thrilling adventures. His brown eyes were pathetic with their appeal of affection as they looked up at his beloved master. He had a fund of experience such as the poodles and the terriers led by their owners could not understand. Therefore Pitchoune was indifferent to them. Not one of those petted, ridiculous house dogs could have run for miles in the dark across an African desert, could have found Beni Medinet and fetched relief to his master. Pitchoune was proud of it. He was very well satisfied with his career. He was still young; other deeds of valor perhaps lay before him—who can tell? At any rate he had been shown about at the ministry of war, been very much admired, and he was a proud animal.

When Sabron spoke to him he leaped upon him and wagged his tail. After a few moments, as the two stood near the exit of anallee leading to one of the grand avenues, Pitchoune slowly went in front of his master and toward two ladies sitting on a bench in the gentle warmth of the May sunlight. Pitchoune, moved from his usual indifference, gave a short bark, walked up to the ladies, and began to snuff about their feet. The younger lady exclaimed, and then Sabron, lifting his hat, came forward, the crimson color beating in his dark tanned cheeks.

The Marquise d'Esclagnac held out both hands to the officer:

"It's nearly noon," she said, "and you don't forget that you have promised to lunch with us, do you, Monsieur le Capitaine?"

Sabron, bending over her hand, assured her that he had not forgotten. Then his eyes traveled to her companion, Miss Redmond, who was a very simple dress, as was her fashion, but the young officer from Africa, who had not seen her near by until now and who had only caught a glimpse of her across the opera house, thought that he had never seen such a beautiful dress in all his life. It was made of soft gray cloth and fitted her closely, and in the lapel of her mannish little buttonhole she wore a few Parma violets. He recognized them. They had come from a bunch that he had sent her the night before. He kissed her hand, and they stood talking together.

Certain it is that the many thousands of young men in 1868 fresh from service to their country in the great war, who formed in a thousand cities and villages and marched to cemeteries to lay floral tributes upon the graves of their comrades, had no thought that May 30 would become the nation's most notable day for opening memory's book and recounting deeds of the past, for placing a higher and higher value upon the results of the great war whose many battles had to be fought in order that the nation's life might be preserved.

While we still pay distinctive tribute to the soldier dead, a custom that should never be abandoned, Memorial day does more than that in these days, and it will, let us hope, continue to do more as time passes. Each recurring Memorial day adds to love for and devotion to country that is essential. There never can be an oversupply of such love and devotion. Efforts in that one direction have paid a million times over for all of the trouble and expense of Memorial day ceremonies the last 47 years; the cost of the parades, the millions upon millions of wreaths and potted plants, the addresses and songs, the planting of flags at graves, the patriotic services in thousands of churches the Sunday before the day of memories, the tens of thousands of patriotic demonstrations and addresses in public and other schools.

About the fondest hope that the survivors of the war have upon the downhill journey of life is that all of these patriotic customs will continue.

Another beautiful and impressive custom has become notable, and is moving in harmony with the Grand Army custom of strewing flowers upon the graves of its patriot dead. Multitudes, now, who did not use to do so, go to cemeteries to visit the graves of their dead, and leave blossoms to show that they, too, have been remembered.

But she spoke without knowledge of the dog. Now feeling that some unwanted happiness had suddenly burst upon the horizon that he knew, Pitchoune seemed suddenly seized with a rollicking spirit such as had been his characteristic some years ago. He tore like mad down the path in front of Sabron and Miss Redmond. Her whirled around like a dervish, he dashed across the road in front of automobiles, dashed back again, springing upon his master and whining at the girl's feet.

"See," said Sabron, "how happy he is."

"I should think he would be happy. He must have a knowledge of what an important animal he is. Just think! If he were a man they would give him a decoration."

And the two walked tranquilly side by side.

Pitchoune ran to the side of the road, disappeared into a little forest all shot through with light. He came back, bringing the remains of an old rubber ball lost there by some other dog, and laid it triumphantly in front of Miss Redmond.

"See," said Sabron, "he brings you his trophies."

LOVE AND DEVOTION

Ceremonies of Memorial Day Remind Youth of Their Duty to Their Country.

Again the thirtieth of May with its flood of memories both sweet and sad. Our national memorial day! Who can fully grasp all that the day means to our population of 100,000,000?

Though we may have scanned the future with a view to divine what would result from a plan he promulgated for Memorial day ceremonies through the order issued forty-seven years ago, there is reason to doubt that Gen John A. Logan, then the third to hold the office of commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, had an adequate appreciation of what the result would be—of the rich and abundant fruit the tree would yield.

Certain it is that the many thousands of young men in 1868 fresh from service to their country in the great war, who formed in a thousand cities and villages and marched to cemeteries to lay floral tributes upon the graves of their comrades, had no thought that May 30 would become the nation's most notable day for opening memory's book and recounting deeds of the past, for placing a higher and higher value upon the results of the great war whose many battles had to be fought in order that the nation's life might be preserved.

CROWDS ATTEND BACH FESTIVAL

The Opening Concert Was a Brilliant Spectacle.

ATTENDANCE BREAKS RECORD

Music-Lovers and Critics From Far and Near Journey to South Bethlehem to Hear Famous Choir.

South Bethlehem, Pa., May 29.—The beautiful slopes of Lehigh university's campus presented a brilliant spectacle as a procession of automobiles rolled along the driveway before the opening of the tenth Bach festival by the famous Bach choir, directed by Dr. J. Fred Wolfe, founder and conductor of the organization.

Music-loving pilgrims from a score of states had grouped around the Paercker Memorial church looking toward the top of the ivy-grown stone tower where the trombone choir of the Moravian church had assembled ready to sound the opening of the services.

For more than a century and a half this choir has been a part of the religious and musical life of the local Moravian community.

The attendance at this year's festival exceeds that of any in the history of the organization. The church seats 1200 persons, and it was full. All the seats have been sold for today, when the great "Mass in B Minor" will be sung. The Bethlehem were most hospitable to the throngs of visitors, many of whom have been making annual pilgrimages here. Charles M. Schwab sent his private car, the Loretto, to New York to bring Madame Marcella Sembrich and other guests, but the famous opera singer was indisposed and was obliged to forego the trip.

At the entrance to the campus the visitors were startled by a local street carnival, which was in full operation, with loop-the-loops and other amusement devices, with a continuous accompaniment of noises far from appropriate to a Bach festival.

But the managers of the show yielded promptly to a request from President Henry S. Drinker, of Lehigh university, and promised to suspend operations during the hours of the music. This promise was faithfully kept and there was nothing to mar the impressive program.

There was a larger attendance of musical celebrities and critics than for many years, and the season is expected to be the most successful since the beginning made by Dr. Wolfe in the eighties.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, is here as the guest of Dr. Drinker, while among the Philadelphia in attendance are: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dallas Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Braun, Mrs. Edward W. Bok, Mr. and Mrs. L. Howard Weatherly, Miss Ethel Altemus, Mrs. James Winsor and Mrs. William B. Mount.

HUGE DEFICIT IN SIGHT

Democrats Likely to Urge Repeal of 5 Per Cent Rebate Law.

Washington, May 29.—Democratic leaders may be induced to advise a special session of congress in order to repeal the law giving a 5 per cent rebate on customs in order to prevent a growing deficit.

This opinion is becoming strong with the semi-official announcement from the department of justice that it may be impossible to get the decision of the customs court nullifying the rebate before the supreme court.

If it is found that an appeal cannot be taken the government will be confronted with the repayment of $18,000,000. This mandate does not go into effect for thirty days, and if at the end of that period the supreme court has not acted the government automatically must begin the payment of the $18,000,000.

How to get the supreme court to stay and review a decision of the customs court after its mandate has gone down is the problem. The government may get around the difficulty by applying to the supreme court at once for a writ of certiorari, but on account of the confusion of the statutes this application itself might be made the subject of litigation.

1500 Coal Miners Quit Work.

Locust Gap, Pa., May 29.—The employees of the Locust Gap colliery, of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company, at Locust Gap, refused to go to work because miners in the Locust Spring branch of the mine complain that the company is not paying them the price promised for mining in the four-foot vein. Fifteen hundred employees are idle in consequence of the strike.

Runaway Drags Woman.

Phoenixville, Pa., May 29.—When her horse stumbled, Mrs. Martha Young, of Pughtown, was thrown violently from her buggy and dragged by the leather or lines for many yards by the badly frightened animals. She suffered fractures of both arms, internal injuries and severe lacerations of the head and body. She was taken to the Phoenixville hospital.

GASHES GIRL'S FACE SO SHE CAN'T MARRY

Former Sweetheart Accused of Slashing Young Woman.

Philadelphia, May 29.—Frances Falmico, twenty years old, of 229 Chester avenue, Ardmore, was slashed on the face and neck with a razor on Church road, Carlington.

The assailant is said to be a former sweetheart, whom she had refused to marry.

The man the girl accuses is Vincenzo Palla, twenty years old. Both the girl and Palla are employed by a company in Carlington.

She was with her sister, Elizabeth, and a girl friend, Grazia Baldini. As they neared their place of employment the man stepped out from behind a tree and in Italian told the girl that he wanted to talk to her.

The girl ignored him and drew to one side of the road with her companions. As they came abreast of the man he grasped Frances and drew her to him. The girl fought to free herself, but the man held the girl in a tight embrace.

The other girls ran up the road screaming for help. Frances told the police of Upper Darby that while he was holding her the man pleaded with her to marry him, and that when she refused he pulled a razor from his pocket and said that if she did not consent to marry him he would disfigure her for life. The girl, not believing he would carry out his threat, persisted in her refusal.

She says that he then drew the razor across both sides of her face and then her neck. He threw her off and declared: "There, you would not marry me! Now no man will marry you." The girl fainted. Her sister and friend returning with assistance were just in time to see the man running across a field.

Only 5% PLUS for the Best "Non-Skid"

PRACTICALLY all Non-Skid Tires that make serious claims to non-skid efficiency cost you 10% to 30% more than Plain Tread Tires of same brand and material.

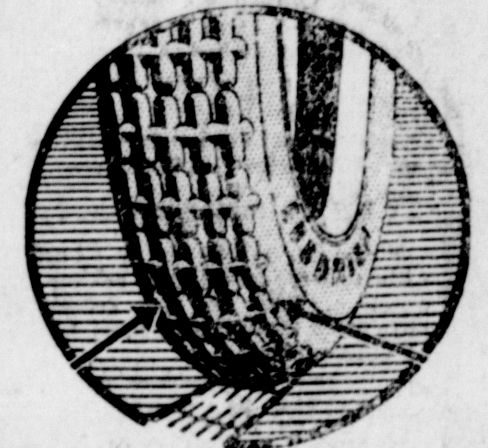

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our plain tread tires.

Here's how and Why!

FORTY-FIVE years of Rubber working (in what is now the World's largest Rubber Factory) has taught us a few Kinks and Short-cuts that are not common to the Trade.

One of these now comes to the help of your Pocket-book.

Through the simple process of Thinking Hard and being Candid with ourselves we have found a Short-cut to make the Best Safety Tread cost you only about 5% more than it costs to make the Plain Tread of similar quality.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our own or any other plain tread tires.

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columns headed "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly advertised tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MARKS
30 x 3 1/2	$9.45	$10.50
30 x 3 1/2	12.20	13.35
32 x 3 1/2	14.00	15.40
34 x 4	20.55	22.30
36 x 4 1/2	28.70	32.15
37 x 5	33.00	36.85

By testing out these Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires on a large number of Taxicabs (where they could be competitively observed and carefully checked up at the end of each day's use) and by comparing their actual performance with that of our own, and other Plain-Treads, of much higher price, we have had this fact forced upon us—

Viz:—That there is SURPRISINGLY more Mileage, in Goodrich Safety Tread Tires, than in our own, or any other, make of Plain-Tread Tires.

So MUCH more Mileage, for only 5% more Cost looked so good to us that we decided to give Car Owners the benefit.

Here's what we now offer you!

The best Non-Skid Safety Tread ever put on the market, and it costs you only 5% more than our best plain tread tire.

Columbia Leads.

In freedom's cause she takes the foremost place; "Excelsior" is the motto in the race. She shouts it far and wide.

The world awakes. Downtrodden millions follow at her call. And tyrants seek the writing on the wall. They must take heed or great will be their fall; They cannot stem the tide.

Columbia leads. In gentleness of reign she has no peer, And those inclined to right need have no fear.

Of her chastising hand; But woe to those To whom she bids the oppressing hand to stay. And heed her not; she'll surely find a way To chasten those at no far distant day Who heed not her command.

Columbia leads. Guide her, O Lord, in this her leading role With right and might to strive to reach the goal.

To three our nation pleads—Lead thou us on Through weal or woe, wherever our path may be; Let freedom's banner wave o'er land and sea.

And grant, O Lord, our lot may ever be To sing, "Columbia leads!" —F. W. C. Meyers.

July 8, for applicants who wish to renew their Professional Certificates by adding two new subjects and those who have qualified in the subjects enumerated on a Provisional Certificate and are applying for a Professional Certificate.

The examinations will begin at 8:00 a. m. All applicants are requested to signify their intention to be examined by letter or postal card at an early date.

Applicants for a Provisional Certificate will be given a thorough test in the following branches: spelling, reading, writing, physiology and hygiene, geography, grammar, U. S. history, Pennsylvania history, civics, elementary algebra, school management and methods of teaching.

Candidates for Professional Certificates will please notify the Superintendent in what two additional branches they wish to be examined.

Applicants for a Professional Certificate must pass a thorough examination in all branches required for a Provisional Certificate and two of the following branches: vocal music, drawing, English literature, plane geometry, general history, physical geography, elementary botany, elementary zoology, or elementary physics.

The examination in Theory of Teaching for both grades of certificates will be based on "Seeley's History of Education" and "Carney's Country Life and the Country School."

Persons not prepared to pass a thorough examination in all of the required subjects should not enter the class. As an indication of what is deemed a minimum requirement for admission into the profession of teaching the following resolution was adopted by the leading educators of our Commonwealth at a recent convention:

"That the minimum standard for admission to the profession of teaching includes a requirement of a three year high school course and an additional year, including professional subjects, and a review of the elementary subjects in an approved school."

Section 1202 of the School Code reads as follows: Every teacher employed to teach in the public schools of this Commonwealth must be a person of good moral character, and must be at least eighteen years of age, and submit a health certificate. Blanks for this purpose will be forwarded by the County Superintendent upon receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Applicants unknown to the Superintendent will be expected to present letters of recommendation.

Applicants for Professional Certificates must present recommendations from the board of school directors by whom they were last employed.

Applicants will please come prepared to submit a specimen of their penmanship and read a selection of their own choice.

The work will be done in ink. Paper for preliminary work, pencils, ink, pens and erasers must be furnished by the applicants. Stamped envelope, fasteners and an excellent grade of paper will be furnished on day of examination.

All certificates will be issued by July 12th. Directors in districts in which teachers holding Provisional Certificates will be employed should not appoint this class of teachers before the certificates are issued.

The examinations are open to the public. School directors are especially invited to be present.

FINDS BOYS "MARVELOUS."

General Wood After Review of Lads Favors Military Training in Schools.

"Marvelous, considering the time," was the comment of Major General Wood after he had reviewed 200 Indians high school boys who had been put through two weeks of military training at a military academy.

"I shall make the experiment the subject of a special report to the war department," said General Wood. "It is certainly worthy of the attention of our country. Now, get me right. Don't have Wood going around advocating a larger army, but I am in favor of giving our boys of high school age a military training."

General Wood questioned many of the boys and found that they knew what they were about and had absorbed a great amount of military knowledge.

SPEED UP ON SUBMARINES.

American Builders Turn Out Ten In Less Than Five Months.

Ten submarines which are being constructed at Quincy, Mass., for the British government will be launched early next month, within five months of the time the keels were laid. The trial trips will follow soon after, and the boats could be ready for commission by July 1, although they are not to be delivered until after the war.

The average time for constructing submarines in this country previously has been more than two years.

Wonderful Books.

Except a living man, there is nothing more wonderful than a book—a message to us from the dead—from human souls whom we never saw, who lived, perhaps, thousands of miles away, and yet these, on those little sheets of paper, speak to us, amuse us, vivify us, teach us, comfort us, open their hearts to us as brothers.—Charles Kingsley.

Marriage by Movie

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

Josh Robbins and Mahulda Jencks were courting Saturday afternoon when there was a rap at the door, and the summons being answered by Mahulda, she saw a man with a camera. "Beg pardon," said the man. "I am working for a film company. I have a number of one reel scenarios, and I am traveling through the country putting them into films, the parts being taken by the persons in the places where I locate the plays. I want a young man and a girl to take the part of a pair of lovers. Can you accommodate me?"

When this was put into language that she could understand she went in to interview Josh on the subject. He had been trying for months to screw up his courage to propose to Mahulda, but thus far had failed. The idea of posing as a lover for a movie took him flat aback, but Mahulda was pleased.

The play was one of rustic simplicity, needing only Josh, Mahulda, her mother, her little brothers and sisters and a dog. It was not long before the machinery attached to the camera was buzzing, and Josh and Mahulda, standing on opposite sides of the gate, were being photographed for the first scene. One of the film men stood by telling them just what to do. He directed Josh to try to feel like a lover, talk like a lover and act like a lover. Mahulda he instructed to draw continually nearer to Josh until her lips were very near his.

When the two pairs of lips were but a couple of inches apart the instructor intended to keep them there for awhile for expectancy, but Josh could not stand so flagrant a temptation and brought on a climax too soon. The result was that it all had to be done over again. This time Josh didn't do any better than before, and the photographer excused him from another attempt, though Josh was quite willing and said he thought he could "git the hang of it after awhile."

After several unimportant scenes had been filmed Josh and Mahulda were seated on a bench just outside the kitchen door, stealing love passages in which kisses predominated. The children were playing about them, and the camera party came in when they were not looking. The last of this scene picture showed Mahulda's mother stealing upon the couple to satisfy herself that the engagement was about to take place.

Then Josh was pictured mounted and about to ride away somewhere. Before leaving he bent down and took another kiss. He rode down the turnpike only a short distance, and when he returned one of the film party was sitting by Mahulda, the two being photographed in a love passage. Josh was told to ride into the field of view, speak a few angry words and ride away in high dudgeon. But so angry was he at seeing a man in his place beside his girl that he threw himself from his horse and, seizing his dramatic rival by the collar, hustled him away, the latter part of the film showing his boot applied to the film man's person.

The picture men, far from being angry at this, were delighted, declaring that it would make a great hit. Josh, having vented his ire satisfactorily was ready to make up with Mahulda, who reminded him that it was all make believe, and the reconciliation was performed to the perfect satisfaction of the film men. A scene was then introduced wherein Josh's dramatic rival was seen lurking about the place. Josh from the house let go Watch, the four legged protector of the farm, who made a bee line for the intruder, the latter making for the gate. There was no time to open it, and the man jumped over it, leaving the seat of his trousers between Watch's teeth.

The final scene was a wedding between Josh and Mahulda. The bride was bound to have some sort of wedding outfit, and her mother got out her own bridal dress and veil, which her daughter put on. Then one of the film men tied a white handkerchief about his neck to represent a clergyman, and the couple stood before him. The children were grouped about, looking up at them with childish curiosity, and by this time a number of neighbors, having collected to see what was going on, were placed at the door and windows. The ceremony having been performed, the make believe clergyman bent forward to kiss the bride, but Josh interposed his horny hand and took the kiss himself.

This ended the play. The film men thanked the company for their services and, gathering up their traps, took their departure. As soon as they had gone Josh said:

"Take off them things, Mahulda, and come right along home with me."
"Not much," replied Mahulda.
"Why, ain't we married?"
"Married! Why, that was only make believe for the men to photograph."
"Well, I'll be darned! How long 'll it take for us to be married real?"
"Married! We ain't engaged yet."
"Great Scott! How long 'll it take to be engaged?"
"I haven't been asked yet."
"Look-a-ye, Mahulda, yer asked. Is it 'Yes' or 'No'?"
"Yes."
"We're engaged. Some one telephone for a person."

A person was summoned, the pair were married, and Mahulda went to her husband's home with him.

The Reason.
"I see they hazed that new student by rubbing jam through his hair."
"That was only because they wanted his first sweet impressions to stick."
